A magic crystal instead of a lens was used when our cameraman made this shot of a beautiful stretch of the Coast Highway south of Carmel. The camera took a peep into the future and shows what the highway may look like a few years from now if Senate Bill No. 183 is passed by the Assembly and signed by Governor Merriam. The bill would deprive the Monterey County Planning Commission of its power to regulate billboards along the highways of this county.

Highway Billboards Threatening Scenery

Petitions are being circulated in Carmel this week asking Governor Frank F. Merriam to veto Senate Bill No. 183, if it is passed by the Assembly, because it would deprive the Monterey County Planning Commission of its power to regulate billboards along the scenic highways.

The bill has been passed by the senate and reported favorably by the House committee. It would permit billboards in any area zoned for business and would therefore cause the planning commission to reject applications of property owners to zone their holdings for filling stations, resorts, roadside stands, etc.

A mass meeting was held at the Sunset school Monday night and Reeve Conover, secretary of the planning commission, explained

Death of Mrs. Sidney Fish Shock To Entire Peninsula

The Peninsula was shocked and grieved to learn of the death early Sunday morning of Mrs. Sidney Fish, a beloved friend of many, who died at the Palo Corona ranch in the Carmel Valley of an ailment from which she had been suffering for some time.

Born Olga Wiborg, daughter of the late Frank B. Wiborg of Cincinnati, and New York, Mrs. Fish was educated in this country and abroad and was an accomplished musician. She was presented at court in 1913 and was married to Sidney Webster Fish in 1915.

Since first coming to Carmel to make her home, Mrs. Fish had been closely associated with, and vitally interested in the life and welfare of the Peninsula. Hundreds of children in Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel owe pleasant memories of Christmas to her kindness and generosity in establishing her annual Christmas Trees for families less fortunate than she.

As Chairman of the Board of directors of the Carmel Community Players, and a gifted amateur actress, she was the guiding spirit of most of the presentations by that group.

Every summer Mrs. Fish left Carmel to travel with her family to their summer home at East Hampton, Long Island.

The death of Olga Fish will leave a breach in Carmel life

Carmel Yacht Club Launches Trouble

It's Commodore Ted Sierka now.

Ted has acquired a seaworthy sea sled which he has christened "Liza."

Stillwater Cove at Pebble Beach is to be its home port.

"Liza" is a wonderful sled but the writer can't say very much in favor of the second-hand outboard motor which propelled her on her maiden voyage Sunday. There are several other Carmelites who accepted Ted's hospitality and had to row home from various spots in the bay.

The real thrill of the afternoon came when the motor did a high jump, landed in Commodore Ted's lap and then vaulted into the briny deep. With the aid of a few members of the Carmel unit of Sea Scouts and a grappling hook the motor was finally retrieved but it

Miss Celia Seymour

Pictured here is Miss Celia Seymour, distinguished portrait artist of Carmel and exhibitor in the Carmel Art Association Gallery. The likeness with which she is photographed is of Mr. Sumner Greene, one of Carmel's first citizens.

In her studio on Junipero at Twelfth, Miss Seymour has many outstanding examples of her work. There are portraits of such well-known subjects as Otis Skinner, in his costume as the Beggar in "Kismet," and the late Julius Kahn, Congressman from San Francisco, on the strength of which she was awarded a two months' exhibition at the Gump Galleries in San Francisco.

A member of the New York Water Color Society and the San Francisco Art Association she has shown her work both on the Coast and the East.

Possessing a gerat aptitude for character analysis, Miss Seymour invests her portraits with the personal temperaments of the subjects in combination with a great skill in handling her medium.

On the anniversary of her twentieth year of residence in Carmel, Miss Seymour will leave for an extended trip through the East early in May, where she will visit with relatives, returning to Carmel in the fall by way of Canada and the Great Lakes.

The Californian

Formerly the Carmel Sun

Published Every Wednesday

PALMER T. BEAUDETTE, Editor and Publisher

MARIE LORD BEAUDETTE, Business Manager

JACK WILLIAMSON, Associate Editor

CHARLOTTE LAWRENCE, Society and Art Editor

Entered as second-class matter, February 3, 1933, at the postoffice at Carmel, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

The Californian, formerly The Carmel Sun, was adjudicated a Newspaper of General Circulation by the Superior Court of Monterey County, California, October 7, 1936.

Subscription rate $2 per year.

Who Will Win?

For the last few days Carmel has been chuckling over the humorous sit-down strike on the local Federal Music Project. It has been funny because anyone with normal intelligence knows that the strikers have no chance to win. It is humorous because pickets are parading up and down Dolores street carrying ungrammatical posters and are using cannery tactics to win sympathy in an intellectual community like Carmel.

Did it ever occur to you that this strike is going to be a success? The nine simple sit-down strikers will win nothing. They will even lose the $63 per month that they have been drawing from the government.

The real winner will be the obscure power behind the strike. That power had no idea that these simple souls would win their points. The real object behind the strike was to enlist a few more recruits for a mighty army that is being raised in this country.

When that group of poor, benighted sit-downers finally file out of the building it will not be with any realization that they were duped. Paid workers in the employ of that power will see to it that every one of them leave with the firm conviction that the government has done them an injustice. They will be bitter and the real purpose of the strike will have been achieved.

They will not realize that not one of them could have qualified as a musician under the requirements fixed by the Federal Music Project. They will not realize that the orchestra was formed by the project for the sole purpose of giving employment to a group which had nothing more than a primitive instinct of rhythm. They will have forgotten that the project trained them and presented them to the public in such a way that under any sort of intelligent leadership they should have been able to make their own way.

They will have forgotten that none of them were earning as much as $63 per month before the project took them under its wing.

Through their own comical strike activities they have lost that $63 per month. Their only thought will be that the government has done them an injustice by not negotiating with them over their impossible demands.

That is exactly the thought that the power behind the strike wanted to implant in their minds. To that power, the strike will have been a success.

A newspaper always looks a little silly when it has to apologize for an article appearing in it. Nevertheless, we desire to apologize most humbly for an article concerning the Art Gallery written by Irene Alexander. It seems that Miss Alexander misunderstood most of the statements made by the curator. These misunderstandings may be cleared up when Miss Alexander learns that the curator is not ignorant, she simply is new to the job, having been in charge of the Gallery a very short time and is, naturally, not well acquainted with all the history and phases of the Art Association. Suffice it to say, then, that hereafter the Californian will endeavor to exclude from its columns any criticism which cannot serve some constructive end.

Camera Club Formed

With the avowed purpose of helping each other make better pictures, eight amateur photographers met at the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's office Thursday night and organized the Carmel Camera Club. Five others have been added to the membership since the meeting.

The club is to meet the first Thursday night of each month. Prints made by the members will be exhibited and criticized. A discussion of photographic problems will feature each meeting.

Professional photographers are urged to join the club as honorary members.

Peter Stuart Burk was elected president and Lloyd Weer will serve as secretary-treasurer.

The following are charter members of the group: Burk, Weer, Theodore R. Sierka, W. J. Crabbe, Alger Fast, R. A. Kocher, Irving K. Gundersen and Mrs. T. R. Sierka. The names of the following have been submitted for membership in the club since the organization meeting: Ross Miller, Arthur T. Shand, Robert Norton, Thomas Mathews and Ralph Castagna.

which will never be filled, but her kindness, sincerity, appreciation of life and beauty have set a standard for others to follow.

Her husband, Sidney Webster Fish, and son, Stuyvesant, survive her.

After spending two weeks' vacation from the California State Nautical School at Tiburon, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Clark, Kay Clark returned to school Saturday. Friday evening he has host to a few friends at dinner. His guests were Bill Chapman, Pearson Menoher and Johnnie Clegg.

The Filmarte theater will be dark for the next month during the installation of sound recording apparatus and other equipment but will resume its normal activity in June when it hopes to present the No. 1 issue of "Miracles of Sports."

Adobe is the material which has been selected by S. F. B. Morse, president of the Del Monte Properties Company for the new entrance to the Seventeen Mile Drive at the top of Carmel Hill. Besides the two gates the entrance will consist of a large reception room, rest rooms and a garage for the housing of equipment and will serve as a fitting monument to early California architecture. Work is expected to commence within a week, according to Robert Stanton, A. I. A. who has charge of the work.

J. W. A. Smith, Monterey Peninsula Country Club resident distinguished himself in the Motor Car Dealers Association Golf championship over the week end winning his way to the finals out of a field of more than 200. He lost the championship ½ down to Paul Reynolds, well known Los Angeles golfer.

Film stars vacationing on the Monterey Peninsula last week included Miriam Hopkins and Mady Christians, who are staying at Del Monte Lodge. Location men also paid a visit to the Peninsula in search of background shots for Greta Garbo's latest picture. It is doubtful, however, whether the star, herself, will come here.

FIREHOUSE COMPLETED

Carmel's new firehouse has been completed and the equipment is to be moved in during the latter part of the week. It is the most modern structure of its kind on the peninsula.

The upper picture shows the exterior of the building. The lower one is of the assembly room. Three bedrooms are provided for the six volunteer firemen who will make their home in the building so that they may be able to speed up response to night alarms.

A modern kitchen and tiled shower room are also located on the second floor. The entire first floor is to be occupied by equipment.

Buying at home is a good way to make the community prosperous, whether you believe it or not.
